

THIRTEEN KILLED AS TRAIN SMASHES HAY WAGON LOAD

Nine Others in Party of 31 Returning From Wedding Anniversary Seriously Hurt.

BABY'S QUEER ESCAPE.

Billboard Beside the Railroad Track Hid Peril From the Victims.

MENASHA, Wis., Sept. 25.—A Chicago and Northwestern limited express, thirty minutes late and running sixty miles an hour, smashed a hay wagon in which thirty-one persons were riding home from a wedding anniversary celebration early yesterday.

Ten young women and men were killed instantly, three died in a few minutes, nine were seriously injured and nine escaped because the big wagon's front wheels had crossed the track when the express crashed into it. Nearly all in the wagon were employees of the Menasha Woodenware Company; were husbands and wives or affianced couples or brothers and sisters. They had been celebrating with Peter Hanson and his wife on his farm a few miles south. The Hansons used to work in the woodenware factory and were married a year ago. BILLBOARD BESIDE THE TRACK HID THE DANGER.

Hanson was driving. A big billboard beside the railway track at the crossing hid the train and the hay wagon from each other; he did not see it until it was too late. The people in the wagon were sitting and laughing when the ponderous locomotive drawing nine coaches cut through it.

Six bodies were on the engine's pilot when the train stopped 50 feet from the crossing; other bodies scattered along the track were so mutilated that they could be identified only by the clothing. Two persons were hurled against a flagman's shack with such force as to knock it over. One was Miss Mabel Finn, who was protected through a side wall and was breathing when removed; she died a few hours later. Another victim was thrown over a barn fifty feet from the tracks.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brinkman and their child of two years escaped serious hurt. They were in the front half of the wagon, the mother holding the child in her lap. About half way back sat Mary Schwartzbauer. She was thrown unconscious about fifty feet and when found the Brinkman child was in her arms, having escaped unscathed.

BROTHERS SEE HIM DROWN.

SEA-ISLE CITY, N. J., Sept. 25.—Before a crowd of his three brothers, one of whom made a brave attempt to rescue him, William Eble, twenty-four years old, of Philadelphia, was drowned while fishing here yesterday. Eble and his brothers, John, Vincent and Harry, were out in the bay, John and William in the same boat. William's oar was damaged and when he started to fix it the boat took a sudden turn, throwing him into the water. John, plucking the other oar, tried vainly to row the boat to where the brother was struggling, but could not reach William. Then he leaped overboard.

GIRL PAID $800 FOR A HUSBAND SHE DIDN'T GET

Failure to Find a Mate for Purchaser Caused Battle Between Two Couples.

Miss Fannie Herman is expected to tell in the Harlem Court today how she paid $800 in advance for a husband she didn't get. The failure of the man alleged to have taken the money to produce the mate caused a fight at Park avenue and One Hundredth street yesterday that drew a large crowd of observers of the Jewish New Year.

The contest—two well-dressed men holding a mill to one side, while their wives furnished the war host not far away. The crowd formed a ring and when Policeman Katz ordered the four fighters to stop the couples charged.

"But we can't stop!" Whereupon the spectators approved and the belligerents advanced to resume.

So they were marched to the East One Hundred and Fourth street police station. There two of the four said that they were Abraham Cohen and Mrs. Cohen of No. 22 East One Hundred and First street. The other two were put down as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mikopsky of No. 71 East One Hundredth street.

The Cohens said that a brother of Mikopsky had agreed for $800 to get a husband for Fannie Herman, Cohen's half sister. The girl had saved $1,500 and three months ago paid for the husband in advance. He didn't materialize and so the Cohens went to the dairy of the Mikopskys to demand an explanation. When they saw the new dairy they charged that the $800 had gone toward the outfitting of the new place of business and not for a husband.

The Mikopskys said that they knew nothing of any husband for Miss Herman and they hadn't received any $800 from the brother of Mikopsky. The brother, they thought, was in Chicago. After the lieutenant had held them for fighting in the street, Fannie Herman, who had been with the Cohens but hadn't fought, arranged bail for the Cohens. The other pair were admitted to bail later.

HE 93, SHE 73, CELEBRATE 54 YEARS OF WEDDED LIFE.

Attend Theatres, Go From Tarrytown to New York to Shop and Act Like Youngsters.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Andrews, at Tarrytown, celebrated yesterday the fifty-fourth anniversary of their wedding. Mrs. Andrews is seventy-eight years old and Mr. Andrews is ninety-three. They are a remarkable old couple and think nothing of going out nights to the theatre and moving picture shows. They go early and get front seats, and on their return home they carry a lantern to aid them over the dark spots.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews are always together, whether on a shopping trip to New York or a trolley ride across the country. Gov. Clinton of New York was Mrs. Andrews' grandfather. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews had eight children, five of whom are living.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews own considerable realty in North Tarrytown and live in the old Andrews homestead, in which some furniture 350 years old. They were surrounded by their family today. Friends came from far and near to wish them many returns of the day.

HALF YEARLY SALE OF USED PIANOS

Including Grand Pianos, Upright Pianos, Square Pianos, Piano-Players, Player-Pianos and Organs

In the Newly Decorated Wanamaker Auditorium of Music, First Gallery, New Building

In addition to our usual large stocks of new pianos, representing the foremost makers of the world, there will be about

350 Instruments at the Low Half-Yearly Prices

Having the largest piano business in the world, this is our customary disposal of instruments taken in exchange during the past few months. The history of each instrument is known to us because we learn all about a piano when we take it in.

In addition are some pianos from our regular stock which have become rubbed, scratched or varnish-checked by handling and which instead of refinishing we reduce in price, giving our customers the benefit.

The Home—The Children—and Music are three things that always go together. Neither is complete without the others.

The best bringing up a child can have is to be trained in music. And the thing that holds a family together, perhaps more than anything else when the children are growing up, is music.

Here is the opportunity to bring music at little cost into those homes which have not yet felt its fine influence.

This Wanamaker sale is unlike any other because it is a quick distribution practically without profit to us of instruments that have come to us in the daily conduct of our business, it being part of our system of piano selling to take used instruments in part exchange for new.

We never buy second-hand pianos from auction shops or country dealers, as is the custom in many used piano sales.

Not a single piano will be sold or pledged or reserved until the opening of the store tomorrow morning.

The experience of the past in Wanamaker Piano Sales—when as many as 245 instruments were sold in a single day—shows the wisdom of coming not only on the first day, but in the first hour of the first day.

The advent of the Player-piano has led many people to turn in their pianos, even though slightly used, so that they may get one of the new Knabe-Angelus, Lindeman & Sons-Angelus, Emerson-Angelus, Lindeman & Sons-Angelus, and thus many of the pianos offered in this sale are but little used. Most of them are like new. All of them have been put into the best possible condition—new bass strings in some, felts tightened or renewed, parts renickelled, cases revarnished and repolished; the instruments gone over from top to bottom, front to back, wherever necessary.

The variety includes almost every known make, design, wood and finish, offering a unique field for the satisfaction of individual taste.

Home-builders, music teachers, hotel proprietors, and managers of public institutions and schools will find in this sale an exceptional opportunity to acquire at a nominal price pianos of unusual quality of tone and design—quite unlike those included in the average sale.

TERMS

We shall make terms at this sale to suit the convenience of any purchaser, within reason. These terms will be confidential; a small payment down and small payments weekly or monthly; the purchaser paying simple interest for such time only as is actually taken to complete payment.
